TOWN COUNCIL TALKS OF TREES

Decide to Save Two Trees in Centre Square and to Provide for Planting of Several Others. New Siding for Lighting Company.

Trees were the topic of discussion at a special meeting of the town council held on Thursday evening to discuss the advisability of removing the two trees remaining in the northeast corner of the Square. Councilmen said that there had been much comment concerning the removal of the three trees which had been cut down but that their condition, seen since being felled, showed that they could not have lived long after the concrete was laid.

There now remain two trees, one at the corner of the Square and Carlisle street and the other on the curb about half way to the Weaver store corner. Mr. Butt reported that Judge Swope had requested him to say to Council that if these two trees were allowed to stand and within a few years council found it advisable to remove them on account of decay or other special reason be—Judge Swope—would pay the cost of filling in with concrete the holes caused by their removal.

Much discussion followed a motion made by Mr. Butt providing that the trees be allowed to stand in view of the above proposition and several of the councilmen thought they should be taken down, favoring planting new trees at intervals of about forty feet. The majority of the councilmen thought the present trees would die soon at any event, Mr. Kitzmiller reporting one of them hollow.

The motion was finally put to council, Messrs. Butt and Stock voting to retain the present trees, Messrs. Kitzmiller and Arrar to cut them down. Messrs. Codori and Tawney did not vote. Messrs. Koch and Shealer were absent. President Trostle broke the tie by voting to retain the trees, saying that he felt the sentiment of the general public was in favor of leaving the trees there but that he thought they would not live long.

Following the adoption of this motion Mr. Butt moved that provision be made in the construction of the concrete pavement for the planting of new trees, the number to be left to the discretion of the highway committee.

This was carried unanimously. Norway maples were favored and it is probable that as soon as the present trees show signs of decay they will be replaced with hardy young maples. About four of these it is expected will be placed, one at each corner and two in between. Council desires all to be of uniform size.

One other matter taken up at the meeting was the matter of the Gettysburg Lighting Company's siding on Railroad street. The new curb being laid there and the pavements, which it is expected will follow, will place the present track in a peculiar position and a motion was passed giving permission to the Lighting Company to change its siding from the present location so as to enable them to build the same on their own grounds between their building and the building line of Railroad street, according to plan and profile furnished by the borough engineer and under the supervision of the highway committee.

This will likely mean another track crossing North Washington street as the siding will have to commence west of the street a short distance south of the Western Maryland tracks.

INTERSTATE APPLE SHOW

On November 16, 17 and 18 the Department of Horticulture of Pennsylvania State College will hold a boxed apple show open to growers in all sections of the country. No cash premiums will be offered, but the fruit will be judged by an expert and suit able awards in the form of certificates, etc., will be given.

The department has arranged to pay all transportation charges and will return the fruit after the show or will sell it and turn the proceeds over to the exhibitor after deducting transportation charges. Anyone wishing to exhibit fruit should communicate with Prof. W. J. Wright, State College.

ANOTHER BIG HOUSE

The Pickert Stock Company Thursday evening again played to a crowded house at the Wizard Theatre. This company is increasing in popularity and has proved itself to be the best 10 and 20 cent stock company ever here. One of the specialties last night "The Billikin Man" dance made quite a hit. Tonight "The Silent Witness." Saturday matinee "The Pride of Virginia."

GIRL UNHURT IN 20 FOOT FALL

Little Four Year old Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weygandt of Stevens Street Rolls out of Second Story Window to Ground.

Falling out of a second story window to the ground twenty feet below little Mary Catharine Weygandt, the four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weygandt, of Stevens street, escaped with slight bruises to her hip and side.

The little girl had gone upstairs to take a nap before supper and as she lay in bed reached over to open a shutter, the bed being immediately alongside the window. The shutter did not respond quickly to her push and as she gave it a vigorous blow it suddenly flew open taking the tot with it.

She found that she was falling and as she went out the window clutched at the bed clothing, a large portion of which she dragged with her. She alighted in a sitting posture and after untangling the bed clothing walked around the side of the house.

As she entered the rear door her grandmother, who was the first to see her, cried.

"Why Catharine, what have you been doing?"

"I just rolled out the window," the tot mumbled between sobs for she was thoroughly frightened. Fortunately she had fallen on the front terrace which was not hard and she suffered very little.

Today she is apparently all right again and seems rather to enjoy telling of her unusual experience.

RECOVERING FROM INJURIES

Miss Tara Slaybaugh and Miss Bertha McBeth, of near Garney are recovering from severe injuries sustained in a driving accident Sunday evening when the former had her leg broken near the ankle and the latter suffered a broken arm, the fracture occurring near the wrist. Philip Eppelman was driving and when the horse became unmanageable all were thrown from the team. Mr. Eppelman, who was unhurt was assisted in taking care of the young ladies by Lawrence Jacobs who took them to the home of C. E. Rice where Dr. Stover attended to their injuries. The horse was not found for some time. It was somewhat cut while buggy and harness were damaged.

GLIDDENITES AT CHARLOTTE

Showing the effects of the heavy roads, its occupants travel-stained and weary, the first contesting car in the Glidden tour checked in at Charlotte, North Carolina, the night control Thursday afternoon at 4.55. Preceded by gaily decorated cars of automobiles the visitors were met in the suburbs and escorted through lanes of enthusiastic people who lined the streets to their parking point.

Following the leaders the cars arrived in bunches and by 7 o'clock all had reported to the official scorer save a few stragglers delayed by minor mishaps. The most serious accidents were the bending of one axle and the breaking of another's wheel. Thursday the tourists were the guests of citizens at an elaborate reception and smoker.

GIRARD COLLEGE BOYS ON FIELD

Sixty Boys from Philadelphia School Come to Gettysburg to Make Trip over Battlefield. Delighted with the State Capitol.

Sixty boys from the famous Girard College at Philadelphia arrived in Gettysburg this afternoon by special train from Harrisburg to make a tour of the battlefield.

The youths spent this morning in Harrisburg spending several hours at the new state capitol of which they made a complete inspection. The beautiful corridors, the elaborate halls of the Senate and House of Representatives were all viewed with wonder and admiration and the beauties of Pennsylvania's $13,000,000 building held the boys awe-struck during their stay. They were all enthusiastic over that portion of their trip some of them being specially active in talking of their climb to the dome of the capitol.

They were brought here from Harrisburg by special train arriving at 3.20 and were taken to the Pitzer House. The first portion of the battlefield trip was taken this afternoon with Mr. Pitzer and George L. Kieffer as guides. Mr. Kieffer gave a talk on the Battle of Gettysburg at the school some time ago and made such a favorable impression that his services were sought again by the authorities of the institution.

The remainder of the field will be visited tomorrow and the boys will leave on the regular eleven o'clock train for Philadelphia.

THE DEER SEASON

In less than one month the deer season will open in Pennsylvania, and hunters are already looking woodwards and endeavoring to locate the choicest hunting grounds. From all indications deer will be quite plentiful in the mountains of Adams and Franklin counties this year, and good sport awaits the men who have the patience and endurance to tramp over the South Mountain.

Deer hunting these days means no end of hard work. Years ago, when the law allowed the use of dogs in hunting deer, hunters had a cinch. The deer trails were as open to an experienced hunter as a public highway, and with a good dog to do the driving it was an easy matter to get a shot quite frequently. At that time they were very scarce through the central part of the state, but the past year or so they are increasing in numbers. The exact cause of this increase is problematical. There is hardly any doubt but that the shortening of the open season to two weeks and the shooting of a deer with visible horns being the only ones permissible are having some effect, but it is hardly possible that all the increase can be ascribed to these facts.

The deer is a migratory animal, and it is possible that they came into the Pennsylvania mountains either from New York and Canada, or from the mountains of West Virginia and farther south. This fact is borne out because there are two distinct races of deer to be found in the mountains of the state. The small, lithe limbed deer of West Virginia has an exact counterpart in some of the deer killed in this country last fall, while others were two cousins of the deer of Northern Michigan and Canada. This migration of the deer to the Pennsylvania mountains may also be accounted for by the fact that never before did the mountains afford such protection to the deer as now. Practically all the virgin timber has been cut out, and the second growth is high enough to afford good shelter, while the dense growth of underbrush affords protection from men and wild beasts.

BIG EXCURSION

The Salem United Brethren church, near Golden's station, held its annual excursion to Baltimore Thursday, which proved a success. When the train left Hanover there were 424 passengers on board—170 from Hanover, 42 from Abbotstown, and 212 between Fairfield and New Oxford.

The train was delayed two hours at Hanover on its return by a derailed freight car and did not arrive here until one o'clock.

ACTORS PLAY REAL DRAMA

Members of Company Said to have Played here Figure in United States District Court. Allege Theft in Gettysburg at Gettysburg Camp.

Forest Gail Weyer, an actor, who has been showing on the circuit, that takes in Pottsville, Chambersburg, Gettysburg and other down state towns has been returned to the stage by the United States grand jury at Scranton. Weyer had been the hero of an interesting melodrama, the action of which hinged around the smiles of the ingenue of the company in which Weyer did the "heavy."

The drama of Weyer and the ingenue was crowded off the Chambersburg theatre stage and into the United States court a few weeks ago. In the cast with Weyer was another actor, Dupuy Marcus, who was doing the "juvenile," and incidentally basking in the smiles of the ingenue. The smiles of Forest Gail Weyer, however, both on and off the stage began to batter down Marcus' defense, and when the show hit Chambersburg, Marcus was only a poor second in the race for the favor of the ingenue. Words were exchanged and many a deadly hiss that wasn't in the lines was hissed for the delectation of the Chambersburg audience.

Then the scene shifted to the United States Court.

Somebody whispered to somebody that a fieldglass bearing the stamp "United States Signal" was stowed away in Mr. Weyer's wardrobe trunk, and then the whisperings grew and grew until the whisperings were openly saying that Weyer had purloined the field glass from a camp at Gettysburg where the company had also shown.

In his story to the grand jury Weyer must have convinced the jurors that the whole thing was a framed up plot to damage him in the eyes of the ingenue, because the jury ignored the bill against him. Some place along the line too, it leaked out that the field glasses weren't really truly United States property, but a sort of a stage "prop" for a historical romance that is included in the company's repertoire.

All the above is told in a dispatch from Scranton. Local theatre people cannot place the parties concerned.

TO SAVE FRUIT TREE LIMBS

To devise some method by which the limbs of orchard trees heavily laden with fruit may be saved from breaking has long been needed. It has remained for Mr. Edgar Worthington, of Hagerstown, to invent a device which does the work to perfection. It works on a swivel and enables the tree to adjust its own weight, and it is also simple and durable.

Mr. Worthington and Mr. Wilbur Bridges, have originated the Economy Tree Prop Company, and as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made they will manufacture the props which have been patented.

A Reader Cures His Constipation—Try It Free

Simple way for any family to retain the good health of all its members

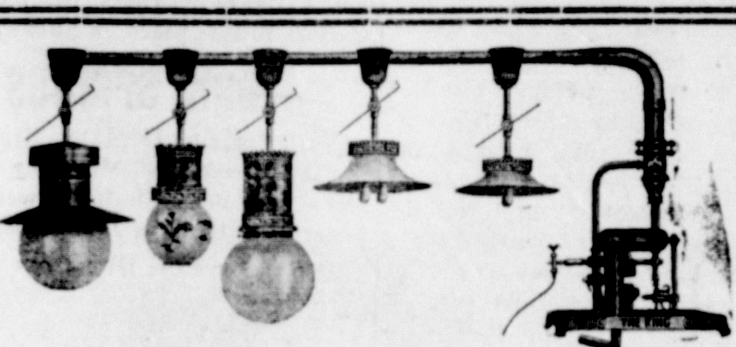

The editors of "Health Hints" and "Questions and Answers" have one question that is put to them more often than any other, and which strangely enough, they find the most difficult to answer. That is "How can I cure my constipation?"

Dr. Caldwell, an eminent specialist in diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels, has looked the whole field over, has practiced the specialty for forty years and is convinced that the ingredients contained in what is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the best claim to attention from constipated people.

Its success in the cure of stubborn constipation has done much to displace the use of salts, waters, strong cathartics and such things. Syrup Pepsin, by training the stomach and bowel muscles to again do their work naturally, and with its tonic ingredients strengthening the nerves, brings about a lasting cure. Among its strongest supporters are Mr. John Graveline of 98 Milwaukee Ave., Detroit, Mich., and Mr. J. A. Vernon of Oklahoma City. Thousands of others of both sexes have written to Dr. Caldwell telling of gratifying results. It can be obtained at any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, or if you want to try it first a free sample bottle can be obtained by writing the doctor.

For the free sample address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

WOMEN TEACHERS PAID SAME AS MEN

New York City Equalizes Salaries.

New York, Oct. 20.—After several years of efforts the women teachers in the public schools of New York have induced the city to put them on the same salary basis with men. In signing a bill to this effect, recently passed by the legislature, Mayor Gaynor said that instead of lessening the number of men teachers the law would cause an increase, because it would remove the economic reason of appointing women teachers because they were paid less. The change will increase the city's annual expense budget $3,500,000.

MERKLE FINED, M'GRAW WARNED

National Commission to Bar Rowdy Base Ball.

"MUGSY" MUST CURB TONGUE

Manager of New York Nationals Warned That Slurring Umpires Must Stop in World's Series.

New York, Oct. 20.—The national base ball commission—Ban Johnson, August Herrmann and Thomas J. Lynch—at a meeting in the Waldorf-Astoria decided to check rowdiness in the remaining games of the world's series. They addressed a formal letter to John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, warning him that if he continued to violate the rules against kicking he would be barred from the remaining games and also would be severely fined.

McGraw was notified that no manager or player would be permitted to influence public opinion against an umpire and that he must accept decisions in a spirit of sportsmanship hereafter. Fred Merkle, first sacker of McGraw's team, was fined $100 for using abusive language to Umpire Connolly.

It appears that the commission's letter was prompted by several incidents in Tuesday's game between the Giants and the Athletics at the Polo grounds.

Ban Johnson said: "McGraw continually addressed personal remarks towards the boxes in which the national commission sat on Tuesday. It was just after Merkle had been called out at second base that McGraw, walking toward the New York bench, cried out: 'This is a sure thing game, old American League methods, you always wanted 220 per cent. The best of it and you're getting it now. It's a fine thing to have Connolly, who is Connie Mack's brother-in-law, umpire for you. You've got it all framed up to rob us.'"

"Connolly is not related to Mack and is eminently fair as an umpire. He treated the Giants squarely. I called the attention of Messrs. Lynch and Herrmann to McGraw's behavior and they agreed with me that something should be done."

Chairman Herrmann said that the umpires had been instructed to enforce the rules without fear or favor; that the base ball public was entitled to clean sport and that the commission did not intend to allow even minor offenses to go unpunished. He said that kicking against decisions had become extremely unpopular and that there was no good reason for such behavior. Mr. Herrmann stated that the umpiring in the first three games of the series had been almost perfect and that the criticism of Connolly on Tuesday was entirely without warrant.

Several New York players openly blamed Connolly for their defeat on Tuesday, but they said nothing about the fact that the Giants made only three hits off Pitcher Coombs. Umpire Brennan called Barry out at the plate in that game which prevented the Athletics from tying the score, when as a matter of fact the play was so close that Barry could have been called safe without exciting the ill feeling by partisan spectators.

The commission has taken no official action regarding the Snodgrass incident, but it is said that the members have some damaging testimony from one of the umpires and a Philadelphia player in their possession. A story was in circulation that Snodgrass was locked up in his room at the Hotel Majestic, in Philadelphia, and "not to relish facing the crowd at Shibe park this afternoon. Jack Barry, one of the Athletics, is quoted by a prominent base ball man as saying that when Baker was spiked by Snodgrass last Saturday, the latter made the remark: 'John T. Brush bought all of us new shoes and spikes, and the next time I slide into you I'm going to get you.'"

According to Barry's statement, which was repeated to the members of the commission, Baker informed Snodgrass that he would hand him a punch the first time they met under the stands or outside of the ball park. Ban Johnson admitted that Connie Mack told him after the spiking of Baker on Tuesday that Snodgrass' action was intentional.

Taft Will Open Highway Congress.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 20.—The American Association for Highway Improvement is to hold its first annual convention in this city Nov. 20 to 23 inclusive. President Taft is to deliver the principal address on the opening day of the convention, which will be known as "national day." Governor Mann issued a proclamation calling attention to the road congress and designating the week immediately preceding it as "good road week."

Carter Resigns as Diplomat.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The state department announced the resignation of John R. Carter, of Baltimore, Md., from the diplomatic service. For the last several years Mr. Carter has been minister to the Balkan states, but was recently transferred to Buenos Ayres to be minister to the Argentine Republic. He has been in the diplomatic service for about fifteen years.

An Artist's Trials.

Brownie Kauber certainly has his own troubles. Plunder I thought he was doing splendidly. Brownie—He was until he painted that last landscape. He painted the sun in too natural a place.

Brownie—Well, it dries up the water in the pond so fast that he has to paint in new water every two or three days.—New York Times.

ALDRICH'S CURRENCY PLAN

Basic Principles Are the Same as the First Proposal.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Former Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, submitted to the national monetary commission, of which he is the chairman, a revision of his plan for monetary legislation. The commission may use it as the basis of its recommendations to congress.

Briefly the plan provides for the organization of the National Reserve Association with capital of approximately $300,000,000, in which the United States government and the banks owning shares in the association shall be the only depositors. The plan of dividing the United States at first into fifteen financial districts remains unchanged.

In each district the banks shall form local associations of their own, which in turn will be represented in the branches and finally in the central organization through a system of election of directors, which, it is said, will make it impossible for any section or set of bankers to control the whole.

To provide for the $730,000,000 of two per cent government bonds now owned by the national banks and used as the basis of note circulation, which are to be absorbed by the reserve association, the following plan is proposed:

Upon the application of the reserve association the secretary of the treasury shall exchange the two per cent bonds which the association will buy from the banks at par and accrued interest, for a new issue of 3 per cent securities, payable fifty years after the date of issue.

The reserve association will pay to the government a special franchise tax of one and one-half per cent per year on the amount of such bonds.

PLAYERS TO SHARE ABOUT $130,000

Winners Will Get $3700 Apiece and the Losers $2500.

Philadelphia, Oct. 20.—Each player's share in the receipts of the world's base ball series this year will be bigger than ever before.

A bank roll of $105,793.83 has already been piled up for the benefit of the diamond heroes. About $25,000 will be added to their account from the fourth contest in Philadelphia. This will make the total somewhere around $130,000, as compared to $79,071.93, which was divided up last year and which set a new record. The players share in the receipts of only four of the games.

Sixty per cent of this year's total, or $78,000, will go to the winners and 40 per cent, or $52,000, to the losers. This will give $3700 in round numbers to each member of the victorious team and $2500 each to the losers for a week's work. Last year the Athletics received about $2000 each and the Chicago Cubs $1200. Thus the losers in the present series will receive more than the winners did a year ago.

Some of the players will get more by sharing in the world's series proceeds than they did in salaries for the whole year's work.

TAFT IN SNOW

Contrast to Balmey Skies of Southern California.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 20.—Overcast and gloved, President Taft stepped from his private car onto the frozen Montana ground. As a contrast to his southern California experience of Wednesday the snow was piled on the Montana hills. The president made his address outdoors.

Fills His Dog's Teeth.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Mexy, a hairless dog, has $112 worth of gold bridge work in his mouth, the work of his owner, Dr. Henri Grosser, a dental student, of 334 LaSalle avenue. Dr. Grosser took Mexy from the refuge of the Anti-Cruelty society a few weeks ago and, discovering that the dog was suffering from toothache, decided to fill his teeth.

THE ARTIST OF THE PLAINS

By EDNA ELLEN WEEKS

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Edwin Winston, a New York gentleman, being ordered by his daughter's physician to take her to a southwestern climate, where the air is dry as well as comparatively warm during the winter months, took board in a ranch house in New Mexico, spending his time riding and driving with his daughter.

One day the two met a cowboy whose appearance was different from those usually occupied in punching cows. His hair was rather long, and his beard was trimmed to a point. His eyes were large and wore a dreamy expression. He bowed to the couple as he passed them, taking off his sombrero with a courtesy not common among those of his calling.

The next morning the young man rode up to the porch on which Virginia Winston was sitting. He carried before him a box, while strapped behind him were an artist's easel, maulstick and other artistic appurtenances. Raising his hat to Miss Winston, he said:

"I noticed you yesterday when I met you and was seized with a desire to transfer your face to canvas. I have come to be that privilege."

The young lady did not reply for a few moments. She was flattered at the request, but knew that her father's permission must be obtained.

"I do not know you," she said. "In the east, where I come from, there is a certain formality about such matters."

"I am called the plains artist," he said. "No one here knows anything about me, and I have no intention of informing them. If you will give me the required number of sittings I will come here and do the work on this porch."

"And your price for the portrait when it is finished?"

"It shall belong to you."

"Very well. I will ask my father and will let you know if you will come again."

The next morning the artist of the plains rode up to the ranch house, found the father with his daughter and obtained his permission to paint the portrait. He stipulated that he was to have the portrait when it was finished at whatever price he should himself name, provided he wished it, but it was in no wise obligatory on him to buy it. These details having been settled, the artist set up his easel on the porch and was accorded the first sitting. Mr. Winston took a book and read while the artist put the outline on the canvas.

The portrait grew under the artist's brush not only a likeness of Miss Winston, but a speaking likeness. Sometimes during the sittings Mr. Winston was present and sometimes he was absent. When he was present the painter worked on the girl's dress, her hands, indeed anything but her face. When her father was absent Miss Winston was kept conversing with her portrayer and on subjects that called forth such agreeable idiosyncrasies as were in her. These expressions the plainsman transferred to the canvas. Neither father nor daughter knew anything about art, but they knew that something was being produced which greatly pleased them. When it was finished Mr. Winston said to the artist:

"Now, my friend, I confess that you have painted my daughter just as she is, and I want the picture. What shall I pay you for it?"

"It was understood between us that you were to have it at your own price." "Suppose we make it a hundred dollars."

"Whatever you choose to give."

The buyer wrote a check for $100 and took the picture. When the artist had departed Mr. Winston said to his daughter, "I suppose a good photograph of the largest size would cost that, and a painting is supposed to be better than a photograph."

The daughter sighed, but said nothing. She was sorry that the sittings were ended. She had never been so entertained in her life—that is, when the plainsman had been working on her features.

At the opening of the warm season Mr. Winston took his daughter back to the east. In New York they sent the portrait to a shop to be framed. The proprietor looked at it critically and asked the name of the artist, since it was not on the canvas. Mr. Winston asked him why he wished to know, and the reply was that it seemed to be fine work. This excited the owner's curiosity and he brought an expert to look at it.

"It's a Kennard," said the man, stooping to find the artist's name. "Kennard is a queer chap. Sometimes in a freak he will put a mark on his portraits. Here it is—that queer K in the lower corner."

"And who is Kennard?"

"At present the principal portrait painter in America, and the second or third in the world."

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the owner, "and what would you consider a fair price for the work?"

"Oh, you can get anywhere from $3,000 to $5,000 for it."

"Where is Kennard now?" pursued the astonished Winston.

"Trying to recover his health in New Mexico."

After all Kennard made the buyer pay dear for the portrait, for the price of Miss Virginia was added to the $100 paid.

Kerosene is sometimes used as a means of accelerating a lazy fire, but in the case of an Illinoisan the other day there was so much acceleration that the unfortunate members of the family could not adjust themselves to it. The stove blew up, setting fire to the house, and five members of the family were burned to death before they could make their escape from the house. When kerosene is put on a smoldering fire a gas is at once generated that is as dangerous as gasoline. It is the ignition of this gas that raises havoc in such cases.

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER

The office of Commissioner is the one office within the gift of the county that should most deeply interest the taxpayer. The County Commissioner can more than any other man, squander the resources of the county, or by careful and economical administration of the office, save the county thousands of dollars annually. It goes then without saying that only men of known business ability, utmost integrity and thorough honesty should be elected to the office. To this latter class belongs our candidate, S. McEicholtz, of Menallen Twp., a staunch and loyal Democrat. Starting but a few years ago upon borrowed capital, he has, by the exercise of keen business judgment, honesty in dealing and strict economy, risen to an enviable financial position in his community. None can say aught against him. Even those, who from party reasons are working hardest to defeat him, admit there is nothing against either his fitness for the office or his character as a man. This is the candidate we are presenting to you Mr. Voter. Vote for him.

"INCURABLE" HEART DISEASE SOON CURED

By the Great Specialist in Treating Weak and Diseased Hearts. FRANK-LIN MILES, M. D., LL. R.

Who Will Send $2.50 Worth of Special
Treatment and New Book Free.

To prove the remarkable curative powers of his new Special Treatments for heart disease, short breath, pain in side, should or arm, oppression, irregular pulse, palpitation, smothering, puffing of ankles, or dropsy, Dr. Miles will send, free, to every afflicted person a $2.50 treatment. The worst cases usually soon relieved.

These treatments are the result of 25 years' extensive research and remarkable success in treating various ailments of the heart, stomach and nerves, which often complicate each case. So astonishing are the results of his treatment, that he offers all sick persons a two-pond Trial Treatment free. Do not fail to try it.

Certainly nothing could be more generous. Few physicians have such confidence in their treatments. All afflicted persons should avail themselves of this liberal offer, as they may never have such an opportunity again. Delays are dangerous. No death comes more suddenly than that from heart disease. Many cured after 5 to 15 physicians had pronounced them "incurable."

Mr. Gilbert Ward, Crown City, Ohio, cured after a prominent physician failed. Mrs. W. J. Criss, Lexington, Mich., cured after a failed. Mr. F. W. Runyan, Spencer, Iowa, after failed. Mr. H. L. A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur
Makes Gray Hair Vanish—A Remedy for All Hair Troubles.

Who does not know the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is thin or turning gray, get a bottle of this remedy from your druggist today, and see what it will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. People's Drug Store, Special Agent for Gettysburg.

ELY, THE AVIATOR, KILLED BY FALL

Met Death When Aeroplane
Plunged to Ground.

THE 101ST AIR FATALITY

He Was Making His First Turn in a Dip Over the Crowd When Something Went Wrong and Aeroplane Fell.

Macon, Ga., Oct. 20.—Eugene Ely, the aviator, was fatally injured at the state fair grounds when his machine failed to rise from a sensational dip and plunged with him fifty feet to the ground.

Ely fell in the presence of nearly 8000 persons to the middle of the inclosure of the race track, after almost clearing the machine by a desperate leap when he realized his peril.

He died a few minutes later, regaining consciousness just before the end long enough to mutter:

"I lost control; I know I am going to die."

He circled the track at about thirty miles an hour. As he was completing the circuit he made a dip.

The machine shot down with tremendous velocity and the crowd applauded, thinking the aviator would rise, as he had done many times before. But Ely seemed to lose his grip, for the machine continued its downward plunge and he attempted to rise from his seat. In fact, he released the lever altogether and half jumped, barely clearing the aeroplane as it crashed to the ground. The machine was demolished and Ely struck with terrible force.

Ely is survived by a young wife whom he recently married in California.

Eugene Ely will be remembered for his participation in the New York to Philadelphia flight which took place in August last. He took Hamilton's place but failed to finish.

Ely came into prominence in October of last year when he attempted to cover the distance from Chicago to New York. The young aviator, who had made several notable flights in monoplanes, chiefly for distance records, started out for the purpose of winning a purse of $25,000 offered by newspapers if he could fly between the two cities.

His start was an auspicious one, but when the machine had gone only eleven miles the carburetor became clogged and Ely was forced to descend and abandon the trip.

In November of last year Ely, in a biplane, made an attempt to fly from a ship to land, the first trial of the kind to be made. The attempt was in the Chesapeake Bay. The trial was made about twelve miles from the Norfolk navy yard, from the United States scout cruiser Birmingham. Ely made the distance of twelve miles from the vessel, but was forced to land on a sandbar many miles from his goal.

The greatest feat performed by Ely was his flight from the Selfridge aviation field near San Francisco to the deck of the cruiser Pennsylvania on January 18 of the present year.

At that time Ely, in a Curtiss biplane, sailed over the assembled warships in San Francisco bay and alighted gracefully on a prepared platform on the deck of the Pennsylvania. This was the first successful feat of its kind. After making several adjustments to his biplane he returned from the ship to the aviation field. In this flight he covered a distance of a little more than twenty-five miles.

LYNCHERS HANG NEGRO

Georgia Mob Hangs Colored Man For Assaulting a White Man.

Manchester, Ga., Oct. 20.—A masked crowd of about thirty men overpowered Marshall Collier, secured the jail keys, took Jerry Lovelace, colored, a railroad brakeman, from the jail to Fernside Park and hanged him to a tree within ten feet of the street.

Lovelace was charged with assaulting F. W. Kernan, a yardmaster, last Tuesday night.

Had Pistol in Treasury Building.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Ferdinand H. Berberich, claiming to be from Atlanta, Ga., was arrested at the treasury department, charged with carrying a pistol. He denied he intended using the weapon, but said he wanted to see Chief Wilkie, of desecrated service, about securing a position and carried the gun as a protection on the train.

Postmaster Short; Kills Himself.

Zanesville, O., Oct. 20.—Benjamin Dugan, postmaster at South Zanesville for thirteen years, and short his accounts $11,000, committed suicide by shooting himself. A postoffice inspector had arrived to inspect Dugan's accounts.

TROUBLE BREWING IN CUBA

Veterans' Association Threatens to Lynch Guerrillas and Traitors.

Havana, Oct. 20.—The Cuban Veterans' association is up in arms against Spanish guerrillas in office and promises that there will be bloodshed if President Gomez does not fire the guerrillas out.

President Aranda, of the association, said that unless the guerrillas and other traitors were dismissed from government offices within two months the veterans, with 127 encampments on the island, will traverse Cuba from one end to the other lynching traitors and guerrillas wherever they may be found. He added that if the judges permitted indictments to be filed against the lynchers the judges would be lynched.

BOY KIDNAPPED FROM HIS FATHER'S HOME

Son of Wealthy Saw Mill
Owner Stolen.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 20.—Word has been received here of the kidnapping of Charles Archibald Ely, the two-year-old son of Hiram Ely, a wealthy saw-mill owner of York county.

The child was stolen from the Ely home, which is just across the Susquehanna river from Marietta, where the parents were absent. Three men who were noticed in the neighborhood for several days are suspected of taking the child.

Searching parties searched through the woods and fields near the Ely home throughout the night and are continuing the search.

PLOT TO MURDER MADERO

President-Elect of Mexico Warned of Plot to Shoot Him.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 20.—To prevent any attempt to kill Francisco Madero during his visit to Piedras Negras, scores of Maderista sympathizers and secret service men will leave San Antonio for Eagle Pass, Tex., opposite the Mexican town.

Local Maderistas say they discovered a plot to shoot Madero, who has been warned.

AMBASSADOR'S HOUSE BURNS

Loss on Robert Bacon's Country Residence Above $200,000.

Westbury, L. I., Oct. 20.—Fire completely destroyed the beautiful country home of Robert Bacon, American ambassador to France. The money loss is estimated at more than $200,000. Mr. Bacon lost valuable books, papers and curios. The house was in charge of servants, the family all being away.

Robbed of Cigarette; Wants Divorce.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 20.—Answer was filed in the chancery court to the divorce petition in which Mrs. Maisey Painter charged her husband with extreme cruelty. Berlin, Oct. 20.—The newly arrived American ambassador, J. G. A. Leishman, called upon Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg. He was presented by the foreign secretary, Herr von Kiderlen-Waechter.

Not They Who Soar.

Not they who soar, but they who plod. Their rugged way unhindered to God. Are heroes. They who higher fare And, flying, fan the upper air. Miss all the toll that hugs the sod. 'Tis they whose backs have felt the rod. Whose feet have pressed the path unshod. May smile upon defeated care. Not they who soar.

High up there are no thorns to prod.

Nor boulders lurking 'neath the cloud To turn the keenness of the share. For flight is ever free and rare. But heroes they the soil who've trod. Not they who soar.

WILSON WILL STICK TO POST

Secretary of Agriculture Denies Resignation Rumor.

"NO TRUTH TO IT," HE SAYS

The Cabinet Officer Smilingly Declares He Has No Intention of Resigning.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Secretary Wilson, of the department of agriculture, has not resigned. The secretary returned from his western trip and he said:

"I have not resigned, and I have no intentions of resigning. It is all news to me that I have resigned. No truth to it at all," he concluded with a smile.

It was rumored at the time of the smashing of the cabal against Dr. Wiley, chief chemist in the agricultural department by President Taft, and the resignation from the service of Jasper Wilson, son of Secretary Wilson, and private secretary to the secretary, that the secretary would get out. The announcement of the secretary sets these questions at rest. He has not sent his resignation to President Taft, and he undoubtedly has not been asked for it.

Before the secretary returned there were rumors in circulation that he had actually severed his connection with the department, while another report was that he had resigned but would not leave the service until Nov. 15. It was in answer to these rumors that the secretary's denial was made.

The rumors even went so far as to mention the names of the men who were being considered as the secretary's successor. Former Representative Scott, of Kansas, for some years chairman of the house committee on agriculture, and Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Hays were mentioned as among those likely to succeed Mr. Wilson.

Another name suggested was that of Professor L. H. Bailey, dean of the New York agricultural college and head of ex-President Roosevelt's country like commission.

Baptists Ask His Removal.

Adrian, Mich., Oct. 20.—Michigan Baptists want President Taft to remove from office Secretary of Agriculture Wilson because of his appearance at the brewers' convention in Chicago. The annual state convention of that denomination adopted a resolution to that effect and forwarded it to S. E. Nicholson, secretary of the Anti-Saloon league, at Washington, for presentation to the president.

HORSE THIEF FIRES BARN

Outbuildings, Crops and Cattle Burned—Loss, $10,000.

Mount Holly, N. J., Oct. 20.—Elisha Jones, living on the road from Hornerstown to Prospertown, near where the Horner brothers were burned out ten days ago, was the fifth victim in one district to suffer from an incendiary fire. Like some of the others, it was the work of a horse thief.

After he had applied the fire brand the thief made off with the best animal in the stable. In response to the alarms sent out, the fellow has been tracked to several places and detected in hot pursuit. The outbuildings burned rapidly, and their contents of hay, grain, horses, cows, calves and many chickens were destroyed. The loss will reach about $10,000, with partial insurance. Farmers are much excited over this latest crime.

Acquitted of Lottery Charge.

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 20.—Thomas W. Lawson, the Boston financier, was ordered acquitted on a charge of disposing of property by a lottery in the superior court here. The court took the case from the jury after hearing the testimony for the prosecution. This reverses the verdict of the district court, which fined Mr. Lawson $100. The complaint was made by the Watch and Ward society, of Boston, after Mr. Lawson had presented a horse and carriage to the holder of a numbered ticket to the annual fair of the Marshfield Fair association, of which he is president.

Racing Motor Driver Killed.

Sioux City, Ia., Oct. 20.—"Billy" Pearce, automobile driver, was instantly killed when his Colby automobile crashed into the fence while he was speeding at Woodland park. Pearce was practicing for the race meet which opened in Sioux City today. His home is said to be in Indiana.

Child of Six Found Dead in Bed.

Salisbury, Md., Oct. 20.—Minnie E. Hoover, aged six years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hoover, was found dead in bed. A physician was called and pronounced death due to heart disease.

American Killed in Russia.

Kyshtyn, Russia, Oct. 20.—A. M. Erlen, an American, and manager of an electro, metallurgical factory here, was shot dead through a window of his residence.

Overlitteral.

In Sir Robert Anderson's book of reminiscences entitled "The Lighter Side of My Official Life" there is a story of a judge who was trying to get the very words of a reported conversation from a person somewhat scantily equipped with humor. The story is good enough to quote.

"Witness," asked the judge, "did the prisoner say, 'I stole the horse?'"

"Oh, no, my lord," the witness replied in a deprecatory tone. "Your lordship's name was never mentioned."

BOND ISSUES FOR BETTER ROADS.

The practice of issuing bonds by counties and states to provide at once large funds for use in the building of permanent roads is coming more and more into favor among those who have made any serious study of effective methods of highway improvement. There are many sections in which the details of the bonding plan is not understood and where its advantages over the slipshod, piecemeal, hand to mouth methods at present in vogue are not rightly appreciated. To make the chief points of the new plan clear we give herewith some details of the issue of bonds which have just been voted on in Jackson county, in southern Oregon, roughly the territory comprised by the celebrated Rogue river valley. For a generation past the usual slovenly and wasteful methods of carrying on road work have been followed. This expenditure has increased until in 1910 it was $900,742, on an assessed property valuation of $5,000,000. Under this system at the present rate of building but three miles of permanent macadamized roads could be built annually, the bulk of the money raised each year being used in the continual repair of dirt roads, which during the rainy season from November to March are beyond the power of words to describe. The plan just voted on authorizes the issuance at once of $1,500,000 in bonds, all of which is available immediately in the building of permanent good roads. On the basis of macadamized roads already completed this means that, instead of sixty miles of macadamized roads at the end of twenty years, the county will have between 300 and 350 miles, and that just as soon as men and teams can build them. So much as to the mileage of good roads available under the old and the new plans.

These good roads bonds run for twenty years and bear 4 per cent interest, payable semiannually. To pay these bonds when due it will be only necessary to raise $100,000 annually for twenty years. This will constitute a sinking fund, and out of it the interest on the bonds will be met annually. The balance loaned out on 6 per cent farm mortgages and interest compounded will amount at the time when the bonds are due to the million and a half required to pay the face of the bonds. A slight additional levy will be made to cover cost of upkeep of the present, but this will be but a fraction of the amount spent each year in the futile effort to keep dirt roads in repair. The bond method gives permanent roads, gives all that are needed and the great advantage of the use of them at once, while it is fair to assume that the rise in the value of property adjacent to such highways would represent a value far exceeding the total issue of bonds required to build them. Many sections have the "good roads" problem on their hands more than others, but where any serious thought is given to the building of permanent roads the bond issue method is far and away the most sensible and economical plan possible. It has already been adopted by New York and Texas as a settled road policy, the counties and townships co-operating with the state in the good road work.

SOME POSSIBILITIES OF ALFALFA.

The other day the writer ran across the report of the returns which a farmer living in Fremont, the southwest county of Iowa, had realized this season from a fourteen and a half acre patch of alfalfa. The conditions to be found in the county referred to are such as prevail in Missouri and in eastern Kansas and Nebraska, which we mention to show that soil and climatic conditions were not unique or exceptional. The man in question, a Mr. Thiessen, got two cuttings of a ton and a half each per acre. The third growth of the legume he allowed to go to seed and from this secured a yield of six bushels per acre. Figuring his alfalfa hay worth $10 per ton and three-quarters of a ton of alfalfa straw worth $7 and the alfalfa seed worth $11 per bushel, the present price, the gross return from this land is seen to be $103 per acre, or $1,493.50. There is little question that these figures can be beaten by scores of farmers living farther west and south, yet they are quoted to show the possibilities of this wonderful legume when it is given a fair tryout. It would be an interesting question to decide the value of land that will give a gross return of $103 per acre. In view of such returns it is no wonder land prices are mounting up toward the $250 mark.

ABOUT FRESH AIR.

The damp condition of a whole lot of folks during the winter months in northern latitudes is not so much due to inherited weakness or lack of constitutional vigor as to the simple fact of not taking enough fresh air into the lungs during the twenty-four hours of every day to properly oxidize the blood. This morbid condition of blood affects every organ in the body, hinders the work of the stomach, liver and kidneys and plays smash all around. Folks whose blood is in the condition mentioned are in just the same pickle as the lamp with the stale wick and smoky chimney. The way to correct the trouble with the human being is to sleep with windows open at night and to give the living rooms of the house a thorough airing at least once a day unless it is provided with a scientific ventilating system. Fresh air is cheaper than doctor bills, but it is mighty hard to make some folks believe it.

Stenographers! Stenographers!!

If you wish to secure a good position as stenographer, enter The Heiges Shorthand School, November 1st, as this will be the last term. This will be the last opportunity to secure a good business education in Gettysburg at a small cost, as the school will close at the end of this term. Term begins November 1st, and all who wish to take up the work should enter at that time.

STENOGRAPHERS WANTED

The call comes from our various cities, "More Stenographers needed to handle our business." The demand exceeds the available supply. One employment bureau, alone, during the year placed 41,744 stenographers in positions and had calls for 47,874, a clear excess of 6,130 positions offered with no stenographers available to fill them. Why not prepare yourself for one of these good positions? School open Monday, Wednesday and Friday, from 4:00 P. M. to 5:45 P. M. Write for particulars.

Public Sale of One-Third Interest in Valuable Real Estate

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1911

The undersigned Trustee, by virtue of an order of sale issued out of the Orphans Court of Adams County, Penna., will offer at public sale the undivided one-third interest of Emma R. McCammon, deceased, in the following described real estate:

A farm situate in Cumberland Township, Adams County, fronting on the Mummusburg road, about one-half mile from the limits of Gettysburg Borough, adjoining lands of Martin Winter, United States of America, Directors of the Poor of Adams County, L. H. Meals, J. H. Cobean, D. J. Forney, Gettysburg & Harrisburg Railroad Company, containing about 147 Acres and 91 perches, improved with a bank barn, dwelling house and outbuildings, and generally known as the Wills farm.

Two tracts of woodland, lying north of the Chambersburg Turnpike, in Franklin Township, adjoining lands of Wm. Kane and others, and each containing about seven acres.

All three tracts will be sold on the farm above mentioned. Sale to commence at 1:30 o'clock p. m., and the terms will be 25 per cent cash on day of sale, or note bearing interest with approved security, and the balance on April 1, 1912.

J. E. McCAMMON, Trustee.

It Always Occurs During the First Hour of Slumber.

"Yes," said the doctor, "sleep is a very puzzling mystery. Nobody knows what the cause of it is, but we do know that it is always accompanied by anaemia of the brain. In other words, when you sleep the blood drains away from the head to the limbs. If you fell asleep on a balanced bed, the moment you dropped off the foot of the bed would begin to sink, and the deeper the sleep the greater the slant.

"That is why a hot bath tends to sleepiness. It brings the blood to the skin and so lessens the supply in the brain. Curiously enough, great cold has the same effect and for the same reason. You know how cold sweats and reddens the hands.

"Recent experiments have shown conclusively how pale and bloodless the brain grows in sleep. How? Well, a piece of bone has been removed from the skull of a puppy and a watchglass inserted instead. The moment the puppy under observation wakes its brain at once grows pink again. No; the puppy doesn't seem to mind it.

"Experiments made by dropping heavy balls have shown that sleep is always at its deepest in the first hour. After that unconsciousness gets shallower and shallower."—London Answers.

ORCHARD INSPECTORS TO MEET

State Zoologist H. A. Surface has summoned the orchard inspectors and demonstrators who have been handling the state's educational campaign for the extermination of fruit tree pests to a general conference in Harrisburg on November 1.

The conference will probably last for three days and the inspectors will present reports of conditions in their districts and present papers. Dr. Surface says that from reports which he has received he is satisfied that the work of the orchard men this year has resulted in a gain of thousands of dollars for the fruit growers. Districts which were badly infected two years ago are reporting fine yields and the troublesome pests of the apple belts are well nigh killed off.

SLEPT SIX WEEKS

When the strange case of the Iowa woman who had slept constantly for 43 days was reported, many people who could not sleep at all wished that they might have a similar experience.

You would be surprised to know how many people there are right around here who hardly ever get more than two or three hours' sleep at night, owing to bad health, general weakness and worn out condition. Miss Louisa Ludwig, Newark N. J., who went through all this has written a letter saying:

"Having felt weak, tired and badly rundown, with little appetite, and inability to sleep well, I began to take Vinol which I had heard was the best remedy for that condition. It has done me great good by building up my strength, improving my appetite and enabling me to sleep soundly."

If you are worn out and weak and want new strength so you can eat well, sleep well, and be well, Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy is what you need, and we guarantee it to satisfy you. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.

MAINTENANCE OF EARTH ROADS IN SOUTHERN STATES

Systematic Labor, Road Drags and Better Laws Needed.

It matters not how active we are in our efforts to encourage the construction of macadam, gravel and other hard surface roads, there will of necessity, for years to come, be a greater percentage of earth roads in every southern state.

The reasons for this are apparent to any one familiar with conditions from a financial and population standpoint, to say nothing of the lack of road building material that exists in a large number of counties.

We are informed by the United States office of public roads, that the ten southern states—Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas, had, in 1904, 472,580 miles of unimproved roads. Assuming that since then the mileage of improved roads has doubled, we will have left 458,381 miles. If these figures are approximately correct, should not the question of the proper construction and maintenance of these roads receive our most careful and thoughtful attention?

Wonderful improvements have been made in earth roads where common sense men have used common sense methods of construction and maintenance, but so long as we are content to place this important work in the hands of incompetent or grafting politicians, as is so often the case, we cannot expect anything but the worst. All failures in this work are not due to graft, for a large majority of road commissioners and overseers are honest men, but as a rule they are elected to office not because of their fitness for the work, but because of their personal popularity. These evils, coupled with the statute labor system, have fastened upon the south the very worst earth roads in the nation.

The first and most important thing to do is to change our laws, abolishing the statute labor system and substituting therefor the cash tax system. If this can be done and the work of improving and maintaining our roads be placed in the hands of men who are engaged in no other occupation and are required to give their full time and attention to their work all should be satisfactory.

No earth road can be maintained in good condition unless it be so constructed as to drain well, and unless it be kept free from ruts and holes. The best method of maintaining an earth road, especially a prairie road, is by the systematic use of the road drag. A sand road is never good under any circumstances, but certainly is not improved by crowding. A sand road is at its best when moist, so it should be left flat. No one wants a sand road, so, if possible, clay should be added to, and mixed with the sand, making what is known as a sand clay road.

The old way, and it is used today by many, of filling a mud hole with brush with a little earth on top, cannot be too strongly condemned, and is only permissible in cases of emergency, when it is impossible to drain the hole or to get sand or stone to fill it. The overseer or foreman should in dry weather center his work on such places until the road is raised to a sufficient height to drain well. Many overseers have brushed hauled two miles to fill a mud hole, when sand is within shoveling distance of it.

If our farmers do not take a community interest in the improvement of the roads and put their shoulders to the wheel we will surely remain "stuck in the mud."—Good Roads.

There is no economy whatever in scripping the rations of animals that work are intended for the block or give milk. Neither is there profit in any man or woman who works keeping himself or herself in the same half fed condition.

There was something a bit awry in the arrangement of things when a longer interval was not provided between the exactions of the ice man and coal man. Instead of there being a gap those two fellows often overlap in their services.

FOOTBALL DANGER IS ON DECREASE

Old Time Players Believe Injuries Less Liable Than Before.

REMEMBERS NEWELL'S STUNT

Former Harvard and Cornell Coach Taught Tackling by Heroic Measures—Changes in Play Make Different Game.

Old time football players maintain that the game has shown a marked decrease in unavoidable roughness since their day, and they believe, too, that the actual work of learning the game has ceased to be drudgery. Ten or fifteen years ago the coaches paid little attention to the trainer, keeping their men at work when they were thoroughly fagged. The coaches used to say that they could teach a tired team better than a fresh one and that the men ran less risk of injury when they were practically exhausted. All that has been changed, and some of the best conditioned teams are those that have had short periods of work. So many different types of men get into the game nowadays that the team is constantly freshened in practice and the men do not become mentally or physically as tired as they used to.

The interest of the linemen, who have to do the heavy work, is kept up nowadays by the simple process of teaching them generalship as well as the backs. The up to date coach expects his forwards to be letter perfect in the plan of campaign, to know just what play ought to be made in a certain part of the field, as well as the quarterback who is running the team. Every man on the team has a chance to study the generalship diagram, which is supplementary to the blackboard talks, and the guard on one of the big teams can tell you every detail of the grand tactics. The team, every member of which measures up to the quarterback in all around knowledge of the game is the ideal eleven.

Another thing that has improved the game is the abandonment of the heavy, hard and dangerous "armor" and the leather tackling bag with the heavy stuffing. Many a player has been badly hurt as a result of being hit by the old fashioned bag. The one Newell used when he was coaching at Harvard and later at Cornell was harder than any player, no matter how rugged the latter might be. An old player who learned his tackling under Newell—he was one of the best ends in the country in his day—said the other day that Newell's tackling bag had a wooden core. The bag certainly felt like the trunk of a tree.

In those days the bag did not come down with the tackler, but kept on swinging, and the player was expected to hang on until the coach let him go. Newell's tackling bag had a heavy shield that hit the player on the head if he did not tackle low enough to get under it. Newell's teams were hard tacklers, for after a session with the bag the men feared nothing on two feet. It was heroic treatment, not the kind necessary nowadays, but it was effective in the old, excessively rough game.

CHINESE TEAM MAY COME.

Oriental Plan to Meet American Ball Players Next Spring.

Word received in San Francisco from the orient states that a Chinese baseball team will come to this country next spring. The team, which is now in the Philippine Islands, will sail from Honolulu March 1. It will be in charge of Bill Settle, the old time Pacific coast umpire. It is Settle's plan to have the Chinese team meet the big league teams in the south during their training season. After that he will take the slant eyed players around the country to meet the big college teams. Also it is planned to arrange games with minor league teams.

NEW TALES THAT ARE TOLD

The Professor's Memory.

When David Starr Jordan was the president of Indiana university he used to pride himself on knowing all the students by name. Like Themistocles and Julius Caesar, who are reputed to have known the names of all their soldiers, Starr Jordan would exhibit his proficiency on all occasions with extreme delight.

Recently an Indiana man who had been a student under Jordan in the "No, sir, I have given that up." Hoosier college stopped him on the campus at Stanford and asked, "Dr. Jordan, do you make a point of knowing the names of all your students?" The president of Stanford paused, passed a hand reflectively over his chin and answered slowly: "No, sir, I have given that up. I found that every time I remembered the name of a student I forgot the name of a fish."

An Ungrateful Sponsor. Few St. Louisans are so notoriously bald as Walker Hill, president of the Mechanics-American bank. The other day a friend thrust his head into Mr. Hill's office.

"Getting up in the world, aren't you?" "Hub?" Mr. Hill said. "I understand they have named a new town for you." "That so?" the banker responded, not unflattered by the news. "Yes—some place down on the Iron mountain." "That's funny," Mr. Hill said. "I don't know anything about it. What's the name of the town?" "Bald Knob," the friend said, withdrawing apologetically.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

HOW JOE SIBLEY ROUTED THE MUSE

Why John Sharp Williams' Poem Didn't Fit.

The Hon. Joseph Sibley, who is one of Pennsylvania's richest men and who has the proud record of being elected to one congress as a Democrat and to the succeeding congress as a Republican, has a fine, big summer place up on Lake Champlain. In former days he delighted to take representatives up to this house and entertain them. One summer John Sharp Williams was in a party.

That winter when things were dull in the house Williams wrote a poem about Sibley's place. It was a tender little ballad describing a lovesick couple who sat on the fence and spooned at the moon while the silvery waters of Champlain beat with fairy fingers on the shimmering shore.

He took it over to Sibley. "See here, Joe," he said. "I've written a true poem about your place up on Lake Champlain. Read it."

Sibley read it and handed it back without comment.

"What do you think of it?" asked the poet.

"Rotten," said Sibley. "Why so?" flared Williams. "It's a good poem, and that's a fine touch about those people sitting on the fence in the moonlight."

"Fine touch," snorted Sibley. "I should think it was. All the fences on my place are made of barbed wire."—Saturday Evening Post.

Beerbohm Tree's Wit. Not long ago Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree was present at a supper where Signor Grasso was an honored and much fêted guest. When the banquet was over and every one was departing Grasso was so confused and carried away by the attentions which had been showered upon him that he directed his taxi driver to drive him to the stage door of the theater at which he was playing.

"What on earth does he want to go back to the theater for at this time of the night?" asked one of those who were waving him adieu.

"Ah," said Sir Herbert Tree. "I expect he has forgotten to kiss the fireman!"—M. A. P.

RIPENING CREAM ON THE FARM.

There is perhaps no other factor in farm buttermaking that causes more trouble than the lack of proper ripening or souring of the cream, says C. E. Prevost of the Idaho Agricultural college. On many farms the ripening is done with no other purpose in view than that of causing the cream to churn more easily.

The object in ripening cream should be to cause the cream to churn more readily and to produce desirable flavor and aroma. That cream will churn more readily when sour is a fact well known to any one who has had experience in making butter. However, when it comes to the production of good flavor and aroma in the butter

The Guernsey is a Channel Island cow which has been bred for the same purpose and about the same length of time as has the Jersey. Originating on adjacent islands of the same group and bred alike for hundreds of years, it would seem that the two breeds should stand together in the estimation of dairy farmers. This is true in some sections where the Guernsey is even more popular than the Jersey, but it is not yet true in the southwest generally. Guernseys are splendid dairy cattle and need to be known only to be valued. Fernwood of Chantilly, the Guernsey cow here with pictured, has a fine advance registry record. She is owned by S. M. Shoemaker of Maryland.

many fail to grasp the principle underlying the production of these good qualities.

The main reason why butter fat commands a higher price on the market than other fats is that it has a peculiarly desirable flavor and aroma which cannot be exactly reproduced in other fats. For this reason it is desirable and profitable to develop these qualities in butter to the highest possible degree. In order to produce desirable flavor it is very essential that the milk and cream be handled under sanitary conditions.

To introduce filth into the cream is to introduce not only the bad flavors which that filth contains, but also germs which will tend to develop some kind of a bad flavor in the cream. The germs or ferments which produce a clean, sour taste in the cream are the ones that will produce a good flavor in the butter. The addition of a small amount of clean tasting sour skim milk or buttermilk to the cream about six or eight hours before churning will introduce desirable germs which will sour the cream and at the same time produce desirable flavors in the butter.

Care of the Colt.

After weaning the colts give them good care through the first winter. If through negligence or otherwise their growth should become stunted it will be exceedingly hard work to make up for it afterwards, even with the best of care. Box stalls are best to keep them in, for then they can get sufficient exercise, whereas if kept tied up in a stall they are liable to become weak jointed. The place should be well lighted for them, too. They should be fed fresh hay, free from dust, and for gain oats three times a day. The morning feed, however, can be composed of equal parts of oats and bran, made into a mash by scalding with hot water and let stand until cool before feeding. Roots, consisting of mangles and carrots, at the rate of two pounds a day, sliced very thin to prevent choking, are good to give, as they aid digestion and prevent constipation by keeping the bowels in good order.—American Cultivator.

Sheep and the Silo.

The value of silage as the cheapest and best succulent for cattle and hogs is fully established.

For sheep and especially for lambs its very cheapness is apt to tempt to its overuse. The successful feeding of lambs depends largely on their being offered great variety of food while in the yards. They find it for themselves when at pasture. This also applies to ewes while suckling.

Much damage is often done by careless feeding of sour or moldy silage. A few roots, turnips, mangles, beets, good bright timothy or clover hay, with bran and linseed oil meal with their grain ration, are the safe and well proved producers of healthy ewes and prime lambs.—John Pickering Ross in Farm and Fireside.

Treat Stock Kindly.

That animals appreciate kind treatment requires no further proof than is exhibited in every look and act of the animal itself. If the master goes to the yard with a club in his hand there will soon be a commotion in the entire yard. If best results would be obtained by those who have stock in their charge kindness to them must be observed.

Corn a Poor Horse Feed.

It is claimed on reliable authority that corn fed horses are more susceptible to disease than those given other grains. Corn may enter into the ration without any serious results, but it should not be made the entire ration.
